Now You Can Learn How to Create Winning Quotations and Proposals That Win Lucrative Work.

Dear Fellow Graphic Designer:

Picture This:

Clive Jones is a talented designer. In fact, you might even call him gifted. He’s a wiz at coding, a great artist, and an honest person ...

Yet Clive hardly makes enough money to support his growing family. This is because Clive doesn’t win enough lucrative design projects.

And when he does get a project it’s often from a bottom-feeder.

Franklin Noel is a fellow designer. His abilities and talent are comparable to Clive’s. But Franklin gets four times ... even five times the amount of paid projects as Clive. And these are lucrative projects.

The Difference Between Clive Jones and Franklin Noel

As a designer you’ve probably heard stories like this plenty of times; and I’m sure you know some Joneses and Noels.

The reality is this: Very few designers know how to create persuasive and detailed proposals that motivate prospects to buy their services. I’m talking about proposals that win lucrative projects.

Even seasoned graphic designers struggle to create these proposals.

I’m talking about the kinds of proposals that will increase your chances of success by 20% ... 30% ... even by 50%.

Did you know that 90% of the design work you’ll go after will require a detailed quotation or proposal?

And that’s not all ...

Even current clients want them.

That's why I'm holding a live one-hour teleclass on Thursday, October 21st.

And yes! You'll get your personal FREE copy of "Winning Proposal." A $39.99 value – a value that doesn't reflect the money it will bring you.

And here's just some of what we'll cover during the teleclass:

- How to improve key elements in your template so you can increase your chances of success by over 20%.
- The latest best practice in creating proposals so you can get lucrative projects.
- Learn the five simple keys to success so you can be ahead of the competition ... and be among the Franklin Noels of the world.

And more ...
